TAYLOR'S VALET IS BELIEVED TO BE A RENEGADE BROTHER

Latest Theory Is That
Sands Is Blackmailer
Who Lived Off His Brother For Years.

CANNOT BE FOUND

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—The startling theory that Edward P. Sands, valet of William D. Taylor, who was murdered here a few days ago, is in reality Taylor's missing brother Dennis, was discovered by detectives today. Photographs of Sands now are being sent to Monterey, Cal., where the deserted wife of the missing man known as Dennis D. Tanner, brother of William D. Taylor, who later became William D. Taylor, lives. If Sands proves to be Dennis D. Tanner, an expert and scion of an aristocratic Irish family, detectives believe they will have to deal with one of the wildest blackmail plots in all history, in which a brother fled a brother for years.

Suspect In Nevada Town

Carlin, Nevada, Feb. 7.—A man suspected of being Edward P. Sands, the missing valet of William D. Taylor, movie director of Los Angeles, is under surveillance here today. A description of Sands received by wire by Constable Birney was found to tally in general with that of a man who has been here for several days. Further information that may result in the identification is being sent from Los Angeles.

POPE PIOUS XI IS CLOSE FOLLOWER OF U. S. PEACE EFFORT

Rome, Italy, Feb. 7.—"Pope Pius XI has asked me to convey to the American people his blessing," Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, said in an interview. "The United States can be well pleased with the new head of the church. I have known him as an able diplomat, a splendid administrator and a fine character. The new Pope when he was Cardinal Ratti followed every step of the Washington Arms Conference he told me Cardinal O'Connell continued, 'he takes the greatest interest in American affairs. Pope Pius XI greeted me warmly upon my arrival here and regretted the delay that prevented me from participating in the election. His Holiness declared he greatly admired American efforts in behalf of peace.'

CONDITION OF CROW REPORTED VERY GOOD.

WILLIAMSPORT MAN DIES IN RICHMOND, VA., EARLY BLAZE

Richmond, Va., Feb. 7.—Five are dead, twenty are missing and scores are reported injured in a fire in the Lexington Hotel here early today, entailing a loss of $500,000. M. J. Fox, of Williamsport, Pa., was among those killed.

The hotel was undergoing extensive repairs and the house telephone wires were disconnected. No elevators were running so that the guests were trapped and many attempted to save their lives by jumping. Others fastened their bed clothing together into ropes and lowered themselves from floor to floor. One man, a Judge of Albemarle county, jumped for a fire escape but missed it and was killed.

King George In Opening Speech To Parliament Gives Praise To Harding

London, England, Feb. 7.—King George today warmly praised the work of the Washington Arms Conference "for which the world owes a great debt of gratitude to the initiative of President Harding" in his address at the opening of Parliament. King George declared "while the new treaty replaces the Anglo-Japanese alliance, I am happy to feel that these two countries will remain as cordial as ever towards each other. At the same time our relations with the United States enter into a new and even closer phase of friendship."

ROBBERY AND HOLD UP AT OSCEOLA ON SATURDAY EVENING

A crime wave hit the little mountain town of Osceola Saturday night last. The first victim of the law breakers to report was John Allard, a well known P. R. R. conductor, who was held up while on his way home from Osceola to Newtown and relieved of a small sum of money and his conductor's pass on the railroad. This holdup occurred about 9 o'clock.

Sometime later on in the night the clothing store of Michael Carstall opposite the old "Allegooper" station was broken into and robbed of merchandise to the amount of $200. As yet there is no clue to the perpetrators of these crimes.

Commercial Club Gains In Membership; Now Is Up To 74; 60 Attended

Sixty of the younger business men of Clearfield gathered about the tables at the Jordan last evening to discuss the affairs of this community under the guiding influence of the Commercial Club rules. No finer meeting was ever held. The Club is now operating under a charter granted only a week or so ago and of which Judge Bell was the principal speaker in the person of O. Bruce Porter was requisitioned and he was in his usual good after dinner style. A feature of the evening was the singing of Miss Mary Mitchell who very kindly responded to the invitation to come around and help drive dull away. Miss Mitchell responded to many cheers. She was assisted by Miss Alice Smith at the piano. The job is rapidly forging ahead in popularity. Last evening the following new members were introduced: C. A. Hile, Harry E. Mann, Gordon Harrington, H. P. White and John E. Hess. New members elected last night were William Reading and W. Shbridge Brown. The Club membership is now seventy four.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR DISTRIBUTION OF WOOD ALCOHOL

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 7.—New regulations governing the sale and distribution of denatured alcohol go into effect throughout Pennsylvania today. Starting today the regulation limits the shipment of denatured alcohol to quantities of two barrels at one time or not more than ten barrels within thirty days to the same consignee without first obtaining a license. In case of doubt, the collector of Internal Revenue is instructed to report any infraction of the regulation to the Federal Prohibition Commissioner.

"BIG ANGELO" FAILS TO APPEAR BEFORE JUDGE BELL

Forfeits Bail Bond Of
$4,500 By Dropping
Out Of Sight Before
Time To Take Dose.

NOBODY CARES

Angelo! Angelo! where did you go—
Alas! We do not know!
But we're in favor of it.

The above is very rotten poetry, but it's true, men; it's true, and is made necessary to assert by a happening in Criminal Court yesterday.

On December 21st Angelo Carmella, of DuBois, known to the habitués of the third class city as "Big Angelo," was convicted of using dynamite in an attempt to murder, the attempt being made at the home of Angelo's brother Leonard Carmella. Angelo's attorneys moved for a new trial, which was refused by Judge Bell and Angelo was directed to appear before the Court yesterday for sentence.

When called for sentence by District Attorney Arnold Angelo was conspicuous by his absence. A superficial investigation disclosing the fact that he had just quietly "melted away" from DuBois sometime within the past week, sort of wrapping his unsavory reputation about his portly form and disappearing under cover of the blackness thereof.

When Angelo failed to appear for sentence his bail to the amount of $4,500 was forfeited and a bench warrant for his arrest issued. The sureties on the bail bond were Angelo Carmella, himself, his son Patsy S. Carmella, and George Boialad. An attempt will be made by the county authorities to realize on the bail bond for the wife Angelo's property was sold at Sheriff's sale since the bail was given.

His disappearance from Clearfield county is indeed good riddance to bad rubbish. He had lived in this county for possibly fifteen years, enjoying all its advantages and freighting its laws at will, yet had never even attempted to qualify as a citizen thereof, and for this latter lapse all good citizens are duly and truly thankful.

He is gone, let him forever stay hence and while we hate to think our own county had anything to do with inflicting Angelo upon any other community, we get a measure of satisfaction in the fact that he will not be entertained for the next six or eight years at the expense of Clearfield county taxpayers in the "get-legal" maintained at Pittsburgh for such as he, as would have been the case had Angelo decided to keep his appointment with the court and District Attorney.

JUDGE BELL DOES NOT APPROVE PUTTING "BLINDER" ON SHERIFF

Rules Against Suit To Compel Return Of Still And Other Apparatus Captured In Raid On Home Of Frank Wasick By Sheriff—Says Sworn Officers Must Do Their Duty When They Find Violation Of Laws.

TEST CASE WILL BE CARRIED TO HIGH COURTS

Judge Singleton Bell of the Clearfield County Courts does not favor having the Sheriff of the county going about with "blindlers" on when he sets out to execute a warrant for a person charged with a crime against any of the statutes of Pennsylvania, be the crime charged a violation of the liquor law or no, and he stands squarely on both feet on that proposition in his opinion filed this morning in the case of Commonwealth vs. John Dee, alias John Shultz.

This is the case in which Messrs. O'Laughlin, Fenerty & Kelley, attorneys for Frank Wasick, alias Shultz, mean to test in the high courts of the state the action of Sheriff Gorman in arresting Wasick for violation of the liquor law and confiscating a jug of whisky, three barrels of mash and the still, all found on the premises, and, as testified by Wasick at the hearing, used in the manufacture of the whisky it is alleged he sold, and for which sale he was arrested on information made by the Sheriff before Squire Chorpennin at Clearfield, before he proceeded to arrest Wasick. The action of the Sheriff was attacked because Wasick's attorneys held there was no "search and seizure" for liquor violations under Pennsylvania law, and for the purpose of preventing the District Attorney from using the evidence gained in the raid in the prosecution of Wasick, whose case was scheduled to go before the February Grand Jury.

The question was argued before Judge Bell on Monday by Mr. Fenerty for Wasick, and District Attorney Arnold for the Commonwealth. Judge Bell handed down his opinion this morning in which, among other things, he says:

"The Volstead Act provides for a search warrant upon strictly defined terms which must be rigidly obeyed. The Federal Courts hold as illegal all searches made which are not authorized and require the return of the property seized. The provisions of the Volstead Act have no application to prosecutions brought for violation of the laws of Pennsylvania and the search warrant so provided for cannot be employed."

"There is provision in the statute law of Pennsylvania which authorizes a search warrant to seek for liquors or equipment for manufacturing whisky supposed to be in the premises in the actual possession of some person."

In speaking of the inviolability of a man's house, Judge Bell quotes Lord Chatham, who, in discussing the sanctity of the home, said, "the rain may enter, but the king may not." A man's home may not be entered and searched except upon due process and even the Legislature cannot authorize searches which are unreasonable.

"This case fell within what is termed 'incidental seizure,' or not this was a proper search."

"The defendant here, though an alien, is entitled to the protection of the provisions of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, and these must receive a fair interpretation, but it must also be kept in mind that this provision does not rest upon a natural right but is purely one of public policy, as was indicated by the Superior Court of Pennsylvania in Commonwealth vs. Cameron. And as we view this matter, the Sheriff did nothing but his duty. It would certainly be a policy greatly crippling the administration of the criminal law if a Sheriff or other officer, upon making an arrest, must close his eyes to all the physical evidences of guilt which are upon the premises and under the control of the defendant, and may neither take them in possession nor acquaint the Commonwealth with the facts and, as a corollary thereto, the Commonwealth be deprived of the right to use the knowledge thus obtained. We do not conclude that such is or ought to be the law. Rule discharged."

Congress To Demand Army Cut To 100,000 Result of Conference

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—A demand that the army be reduced to 100,000 men will be the first Congressional move resulting from the Arms Conference. This would cut taxes and the American people immediate benefit from the Conference.

ARNOLD HELMBOLD DIES

Arnold Helmbold, son of the late W. C. Helmbold, and a former Curwensville boy died suddenly in New York City last night. The deceased was about 42 years of age and is survived by his widow and two children.

"I wonder what tomorrow has in store for me," said Mrs. Eargins, scanning the Sunday advertisements.

WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD OF STATE POLITICS?

February 25th is the first day for candidates to obtain signatures on petitions to be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth and while petitions can be filed up until April 6th no doubt by the former date the political situation will be considerably clarified. At any rate the aspirants for United States Senator, Governor, State Senator and the Legislature will all be in the ring by that time.

For the Governor Secretary Baker, of the Republican State Committee continues to stand steadfast in his preference to Lieutenant Governor Reddick and politicians everywhere readily admit that Mr. Baker holds the key to the much desired harbor. The boom started in Philadelphia recently for Harry Markew shows no signs of flagging out but rather seems to be gaining strength.

A bomb shell landed in the political camp on Saturday with the announcement that Chief Forester Pinchot is seriously considering entering the primaries. These and Banking Commissioner Fisher are the principal contenders. The sentiment for Mr. Fisher is more than holding ground, but it is said that he too refuses to make his personal preferences and missed one got.

As to who will be Senator Pepper's running mate is purely guess work at this stage. Rumor persists that Senator Crow will not be able to enter the campaign. In this event John A. Bell, of Pittsburgh, may be the candidate, but this is based purely on the publicity he is getting and not on any knowledge of the facts. Thus far there have been no aspirants on the Democratic ticket.

For Congress there are two candidates on the Republican ticket who have definitely announced. Clearfield county will have its candidate in Deputy Attorney General William J. Swoope, and Congressman Evan J. Jones, who has served two terms, is seeking re-election. It is not believed that there will be any other entrants in the Republican primary for Congress and the Swoope-Jones contest promises to be one of the features of the primary election this year.

We are getting a little closer home when we get down to the State Senate. The real surprise of the Senatorial scramble was given yesterday by the announcement of Squire Chorpennin, of Clearfield, who boldly and fearlessly threw his hat on the pile of hats already in the ring. Squire Chorpennin is one of the oldest residents of Clearfield, has always been a regular organization Republican, is a Civil War Veteran and a fine type of citizen. He will have as his opponents H. B. Scott, of Centre County, Dr. J. I. Pollum, of DuBois, and it is reliably stated, M. I. McCreight of DuBois.

For neither Congress nor State Senate has any Democrat even suggested that he would be a candidate, but some surprises may come out of this as the Democrats are taking heart again since the red hot statement of their leader Governor Cox made at Dayton, Ohio, a week or so ago. A great deal of effort is being made to get a prominent Democrat and veteran of the world war to run for the State Senate, but it is said that he will not consider being a candidate at all.

SEWERAGE PROBLEM AND POLICE DEPT. COUNCIL TOPICS

State Department Of Health More Lenient
With Borough In The Building Of Sewers.

HITT COMPLAINT

President Rosser presided over the regular semi-monthly meeting of Council in the borough building last evening. Mayor Kittelberger and nine of the twelve members of council were present and participated in the deliberations.

Tax Collector Taylor reported collections of $994.41 on the duplicate of 1920 during January.

Burgess Kittelberger reported 14 arrests for January with the collection of $95 in fines and $5.50 in licenses for the month.

Borough Engineer Hess reported on South Fourth street paving and presented curb and gutter assessment map, which was turned over to the Borough Solicitor for the preparation of the necessary Ordinance. The assessment of the cost of the curb and gutter against the abutting properties will be made at the next meeting of council on the basis of $1.146 per front foot.

Borough Solicitor Urey read a letter from the Elk Tanning Company regarding right of way for Bigler avenue sanitary sewer. The matter was referred to the Sewer Committee.

The suit instituted several months ago against the P. R. R. Co., to force the completion of the paving between their tracks on Third street, was ordered discontinued as the work had been finished. The costs of suit, amounting to $9.50, were ordered paid.

Mr. Wickersham, representing the Engineering Bureau of the State Department of Health, was presented and took up with Council the sewerage problem in Clearfield. Under the previous Health Commissioner, the borough was compelled to take its house sewage out of the storm water sewers, and made to construct separate sanitary sewers. Now the Health Department holds that inasmuch as three-fourths of our sewers are of the combination type and the matter of separating these sewers would be so burdensome financially to the borough that the Department will now allow the borough to construct combination sewers in the future, if the council so wills. Mr. Wickersham said the department wanted to hold the borough in the matter and told Council to think the proposition over and take action on same when satisfied what was best to do.

The Highway Department recommended that permission be given T. J. Murphy to extend his side track across Bridge street. The recommendation was adopted the riding to be built across the street under the direction of the Highway Department and Borough Engineer.

That never ending police controversy had an other turning when V. E. Stine appeared before Council and entered complaint against Chief Hitt. Stine said Hitt and Eddie Endres entered the bath room at his flat in the old Douglass Hotel building on Dalsey street Sunday afternoon and when he complained Hitt gave him a bailing out. Councilman Poorman corroborated Stine and said when he spoke to the Chief about the affair Hitt also gave him a tongue lashing. Hitt claimed to have had permission from the owner of the building to use the bathroom and said he met Endres coming in as he was going out. Stine claimed that one of the two men in the bath room asserted "that was pretty good stuff" but he didn't know what was meant. The matter was referred to Burgess Kittelberger, as he is in charge of the police.

The election of A. P. Kreher as Chief of the Fire Department for the ensuing year was approved by Council.

The Property Committee was instructed to meet with the Fire Chief and canvass the needs of the Fire Department and report at next meeting.

COMMANDER WELL KNOWN

C. D. Cunningham of Centralia, Wash., Was Prosecutor of I. W. W. Assassins of Legion Men.

One of the best-known men in the country in I. W. W. and other radical circles is the now commander of the American Legion of Washington, He is C. D. Cunningham, Centralia.

The nation was shocked on the first anniversary of Armistice day by the wanton killing by radicals in Centralia of four American Legion men who were participating in the parade. Firing from vantage points on the young veteran marchers, the I. W. W. slung stones, four outright, wounded others and took to flight. Cunningham was one of the leaders of the chase which captured Wesley Everest, ring-leader of the radicals. The state turned to Cunningham as special prosecuting attorney in the ensuing trials of the murderers.

In the court proceedings, which held the attention of America for eight weeks, Cunningham was pitted against the best legal talent that the national organization of the I. W. W. could muster. Cunningham was victor, however. The radicals were convicted and a year later Cunningham won again, when the Supreme court upheld the verdicts.

During the war Cunningham served as an infantry private at Camp Pike, Ark.

HOW THE SERVICE MEN STAND

Checking Up at Washington by Legion Reveals That Many Members Are in Limelight.

When President Harding replied to Representative Lamar Jeffers, Alabama, and the legislative committee of the American Legion that there were no ex-service men of outstanding qualifications to be members of the American commission to the international disarmament conference, there was a checking up in Washington to determine how service men stand in the eyes of the American electorate.

A statement later issued by the Legion showed that the President appointed an ex-service man as secretary of the navy and another assistant secretary. His alien property custodian in service during the war. The assistant postmaster general is an ex-service man. An A. E. F. veteran is head of the national budget. The President confided the task of organizing the new veterans' bureau to a former soldier.

The public has elected 26 men who served either in the army or the navy to the house of representatives and two to the senate. In nearly a dozen states service men are the governors. Eight members of Secretary Hoover's national committee on unemployment were ex-service men.

HELPS TO FIND EMPLOYMENT

Arthur Woods, Head of Hoover Special Committee, Proves Aid to Ex-Service Men.

Ex-service men throughout the country have benefited largely from the operations of Secretary Hoover's committee on unemployment. The former soldiers and sailors have had a special friend at court in Arthur Woods, head of the Hoover special committee which has co-ordinated the nationwide effort to provide jobs for the jobless.

As a special assistant secretary of war in 1919, Mr. Woods rendered distinguished service in organizing and directing a national bureau for the establishment in civil life of service men. In that work he built up an organization whose activities encompassed the nation and proved his ability to get on with and understand men. Mr. Woods formerly was police commissioner of New York, and was the first chairman of the American Legion's national Americanism commission.

Workman's New Third Street Store Opened For Business Today

Moving a large stock of groceries such as is carried at the Third-street store of the Workman's chain between closing time last evening and opening time this morning was some feat but Gen. Mgr. Geo. I. Thurston, of the Workman's chain and his trustees accomplished this feat and the patrons of the Third-street Workman's store were ushered into the first real self-serve store that has ever been opened in this section.

There are two entrances to this newly fitted store in the former Woolridge Building, viz. Market street thru the former R. Cook grocery store, and Third street thru the room formerly occupied by Kujawa & Co. tailors.

Entering upon the Market street one passes thru a one-way turnstile and in this room the package and canned goods are on display. One helps oneself, going about the shelving which lines both sides of the room. At the rear of this room is a two-way turnstile and at this point the cashier is located. The cashier looks over your selections, makes out your slip on an adding machine and you pay the amount of your purchase.

Thru the two-way turnstile toward the Third street entrance you enter bakery and delicatessen department where bakery products and green produce are on display.

To allay any misunderstanding it is possible to enter this new store from either the Third street or the Market street entrances.

There can be no prettier display on earth than a display of package groceries and this is brought out by the arrangement of the grocery room at this new and commodious store. Row after row of pretty labels placed on America's best and most widely advertised products make this room a bower of beauty and the whole is a fitting compliment to the enterprise and push of this going Clearfield concern.

A pretty and fitting emblem of the way in which the Workman's chain operates itself is provided by the Russian sparrows, who came to the city and the superior stock of the new store, nourished and raised in a branch of our cherry tree by a prominent member of the Workman's chain. It is some new kind of trap and bait so with such a lot of the birds, satisfied and more tempting and more woody, woodpeckers get all the good of it.—Ohio State Journal.

True Gospel of Work.
Work is the glory and delight of life, and the only acceptable reason for better in this world, and the object of all practical investigations of the principle of fatigue and recovery is to find out not what is the least possible amount of work that a human being can get about on, but what is the greatest amount that he can do without decreasing his working capacity. Such is the gospel of work, which those who are not of the camp that regard as heretical doctrine.—Exchange.

Reached His Capacity.
The first door of that house was reached at the rate of climbing a flight of stairs. One evening the family came from town with a good many parcels, which the father, mother and son, Eugene, proceeded to carry into the house. Eugene going up the steps first. As they neared the top step the father said, forgetting momentarily that the youngster's arms were full, too, "Open the screen door, son," to which the youngster replied: "I can't papa, I'm all used."

Supremacy in Air Disputed.
Man is not to be undisturbed lord of the upper air. Enemy birds armed with formidable beaks and talons are ready to oppose the soaring ambition of the sky-pilot, or a swarm of smaller seabirds and scavengers, menacing by reason of their numbers, are liable to overwhelm him, as the Lilliputians did Gulliver.

Everybody Does It.
One form which our national lying not infrequently takes is to say, when a prominent friend finally does come around and pay back what he owes you, or part of it: "Why, I'd forgotten all about it."—Ohio State Journal.

Roman Glass Matters.
Rome is supposed to have entered upon glass making only some 300 or 400 years before the Christian era. She brought it into the empire along with her other conquests. Alexander Severus, 220 B. C., levied a tax upon its manufacture within the imperial city, and in the reign of Tiberius the glass makers had an entire street to themselves in the Porta Capena.

The Perpetual Vision.
What lightens labor, sanctifies toil and makes a man good and strong, wise and patient, just and benevolent, both lowly and great, as well as worthy of intelligence and freedom, is the perpetual vision before him of a better world beaming through life's shadows.—Victor Hugo.

Look for Opportunities.
I used to say "Nobody uses me right. Nobody gives me a chance." But if chances had been snakes I would have been bitten a hundred times a day. We need occultists not opportunities.—Ralph Parke.

Rose Always Fragrant.
It is doubtful if there is any other flower so widely spread over the globe, so universally represented among the races of men in all times as the rose. Before the Christian era, men chose the finest of the species and improved them insofar as possible. And it was during the invasion of the barbarians from the north German countries during the dark ages that the culture of the rose was driven into the more protected places, like the convents and the larger castles. St. Louis Republic Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

Mr. Farmer

Do you know of the damage done by rats and mice? It is estimated that every rat consumes or spoils $2.00 worth of food annually, to say nothing of the other damage done.

Read this government bulletin:

"An Iowa farmer, writing to an agricultural journal, reported that rats had destroyed in one winter about 500 bushels of corn, stored in cribs, or one fourth of his entire crop. Another farmer reported rats had robbed him of an entire summer's hatching of 300 or 400 chicks, and still another estimated his loss in grain and poultry for one season, due to rats, as sufficient to pay his taxes for three years."

A Z O A

This is a virus that infects rats and mice with a disease which speeds their death away with them. AZOA is absolutely harmless to any other animal and you may spread the bait round your house, barn or corn crib with perfect safety.

Raising rats is a losing business, so why not exterminate them?

Mail 50c for a package of AZOA and see how quickly the rats and mice are cleaned out.

Delightful Party

On Thursday evening, Feb. 2nd, at the home of Mrs. Giggy on Nichols St. a very pleasant surprise party was tendered her daughter, Mrs. Fred Broad in honor of her 26th Birthday.

The evening was spent in dancing and games. Mrs. Cal Johnson recited several selections which were delivered in a pleasing manner. Miss Tutie Woodring also recited and sang a solo. A lunch was served including a birthday cake baked by the noted baker, Charles Livingston of the West Side Workman's Bakery which was both beautiful and appetizing. Everybody reports a wonderful time.

We Wonder.

“Here's a question I'd like to propound,” remarked the Observer of Events and Things: “Does a bearded soldier become knock-kneed when he faces the enemy for the first time?”

JUST AS OUR GRANDFATHERS THOUGHT!

They Talked Hard Times After the Civil War, But Better Days Are Sure To Come To Us.

By Dr. J. W. Holland in St. Paul Farmer

The date was 1867. The place was Northern Missouri. The Civil War was two years away. The persons were two farmers sitting on a worm fence. The theme was the only one they knew—HARD TIMES!

You know what they were saying. Their world of finance was warped and twisted. Interest rates were high and money almost impossible to get. Their good wives were gathering up eggs and selling them for eight cent per dozen. They had to beg the dealer to buy their pork. Their corn was worth fourteen cents and their oats were not worth hauling away over the poor roads.

It was a hard time. What did they do? They faced the situation with hope and hard work; and in a few years their farms were paid for, their children educated, and they had a comfortable nest built for old age. But in 1867 the clouds of gloom hung close over their puzzled heads.

In 1893 the sons of those two farmers were sitting near the same place discussing hard times. They even went so far as to threaten to move off the farms. Nothing paid. Those were black times for the man who was trying to pay for his farm. Those discouraged farmers talked the language of their fathers a generation before.

That was 1893. Today these two farmers have good farms, and have succeeded in giving their children a better chance in the world than they themselves had, and they have had in all, more luxuries than their fathers had comforts.

Today the grandsons of the farmers of 1867 are sitting in their automobiles talking hard times, and poor markets, and low prices. They are talking the language of their fathers. Abraham Lincoln had a poem written by a Scotchman which he kept over his desk in the White House which read, "We are the same as our fathers have been." We are surely the same when depression hits our pocketbooks.

Time has shown that the farmers of 1867 and 1893 did have all the facts, for had they been able to forecast the future days, they would have been singing instead of moaning. After days came just as truly as better days are sure to come.

Now, it might be a good deal worse! The money and gold the world might be in foreign countries instead of in our vaults. That is something. Then, the harvest of the past year, has been, generally, 60 per cent to the good. The prosperity of the country as a whole leaves much to be desired, it is easily 60 per cent normal. Some of the foreign loans are maturing soon, and that will start more capital moving.

Then we need to remember that $2.50 wheat and $1.70 corn, and 80 cent oats were the exception, and were war-time prices. We thought that that sort of thing would last forever, we advanced the price of land far beyond where it can reasonably stay, and bought more land than we thought we could need, not thinking that the war was burning up more land than the excessive values we were adding to the land.

After all is said and done, it is the land that stays where it is. It has to bear the burden of the taxes for war. In addition, it has borrowed a few billions from the banks, which billions are owed to the people, just to pay down on high-priced land for new cars, and now the banks want their money.

It is a bad situation, but not so bad that we shall not recover. We are going to need patience, and charity, and optimism, and hard work, and a lot of other good things, to tide us over. This war, which was not of our own choosing, has still been paid for. Taxes are certain to be high for years to come.

Had better face the facts. People seldom fail who are true enough to face facts, for it stiffens the spine. The farmer and his good wife are the very people who are going to do their part to pull us all out of the national quagmire of despond.

Just as our fathers and grandfathers faced the financial crisis of their times, and turned it into order, so will we. In the meantime there are two things we can do to help:

Let's stop talking to each other about hard times. We are not starving yet and there is no prospect of that. If we stop on suggesting to each other that things are "going to the devil," it will grease the slide to that state of things.

Then we must keep suggesting to each other that we believe in each other; pledge each other our mutual faith, to country and the God above us, that we will stay on the job, and plug and save and dig until the new economical day comes. If we will all do that, our eyes will be wide open to the new day when it comes.

Wrecker Shot in the Act

This photo was taken a few minutes after Walter E. "Red" Lambertson was shot while placing a wrecking device before an approaching train at Glendale, Cal. Detectives are investigating to learn whether this act was the result of a grudge against the Southern Pacific or was for the robbery of a heavy shipment of coin on the train.

Embezzling Cashier Has Admitted Stealing Fund From Methodist Church

Meadville, Pa., Feb. 7.—The embezzlement of funds of the Conneautville, M. E. church was admitted today by Judson Snodgrass, a former Cashier of the Bank of Conneautville in jail here awaiting sentence on charges of embezzlement, falsifying accounts, etc. Snodgrass confessed that he had appropriated for his own use $1500 bequeathed to the church of which he was the treasurer. The Bank of Conneautville was closed following discovery of Snodgrass' manipulations.

Franklinites Renew $2,000 Offer For The Return Of His Wife

Franklin, Pa., Feb. 7.—Believing that Mrs. Bessie Baker Wagner, missing from Franklin, since November 14th, is still alive, her husband today renewed his offer of $2000 for her return. No questions will be asked Wagner announced. A man charged with her abduction has been held here for two weeks but there is doubt that he knows anything about it.

MERROW—MONS

William Merrow and Miss Lois Mons, one of Clearfield's most popular young people, were married at St. Francis parsonage by Rev. Father M. A. Ryan at 10 o'clock this morning in the presence of the immediate contracting parties.

Following the ceremony and congratulations the wedding party repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Merrow where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served, at the conclusion of which the happy young people left by automobile for Altoona where they took a main line train for an extended wedding tour.

The groom is a fine young man while his bride, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Mons, of Daisy street, is well equipped for the new relation in life she has assumed.

At the conclusion of the honeymoon trip the young people will reside here the groom being associated with his father in the restaurant business on Third street.

ANOTHER STORM

ON THE WAY

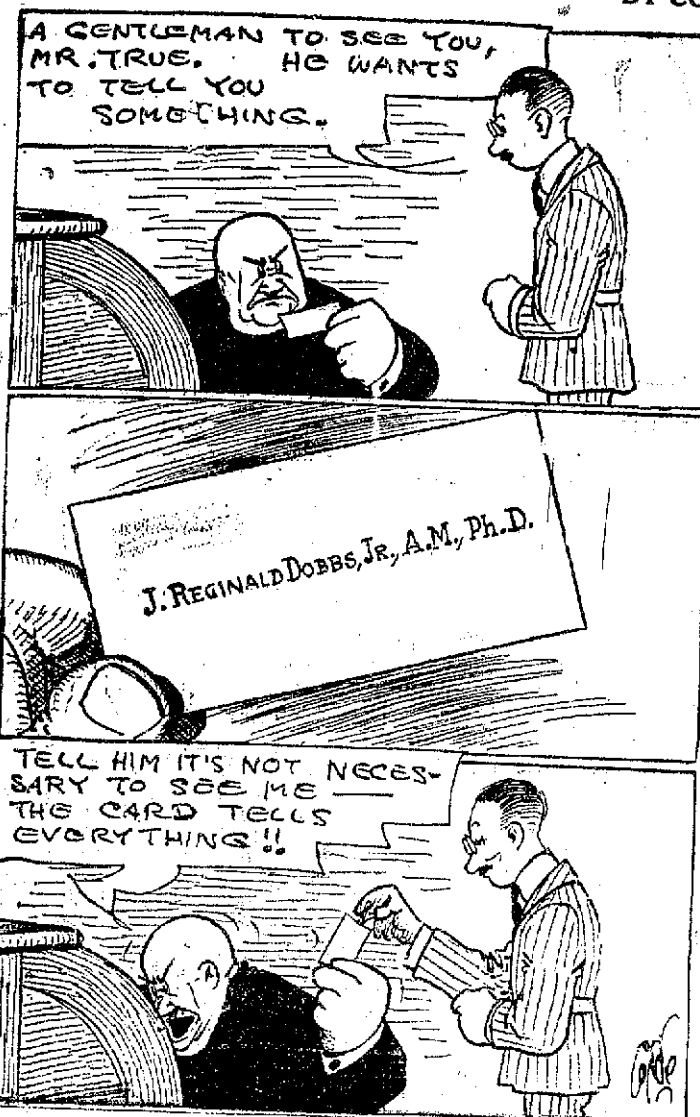

New York, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Another Atlantic coast storm was predicted by the Weather Bureau today. At 9:30 a. m. storm warnings were posted from the Virginia Capes to Boston.

Jonathan Shaffer, Brady Township farmer, living along the Luthersburg to Grantman State Road, dissatisfied with the award of damages given him for right of way for the improved road through his farm, entered suit in Prothonotary Ralston's office against the County of Clearfield in an attempt to recover the sum of $1500 which he alleges he is entitled to by reason of the damage to his property by the road. He is represented by Pentz & Pentz.

WINBURNE

We are glad to note that Kelly's mines which have been idle for about a year, have started work again.

This community sustained a great loss last week through the death, Tuesday afternoon of Lars E. Larson-Dahlquist. He was favorably known to a wide circle of friends, having followed his trade of coal mining here for thirty years. He was born in Sweden sixty-two years ago. His wife died two years ago and he leaves a family of ten sons and daughters also three brothers and three sisters to mourn his demise. Funeral services were held in the Swedish Lutheran church Friday afternoon, with interment at Grass Flat.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dudley, of Newark, N. J., who were called home by the illness and death of the latter's mother, Mrs. A. Muirhead, Sr., are visiting relatives here.

The Winburne Fire Company has installed an electric alarm whistle which has been placed on top of the Sommerville store, being connected something that has been badly needed and the members of the Fire Company are to be congratulated on their public spirit in raising the money for this purpose.

There is great rejoicing in the home of Gust Jacobson, of Lanse, over the arrival Wednesday of their seventh daughter. This makes ten fine healthy children and this new little lady is as welcome as the first.

The Sunday School classes of Mrs. Thomas and Miss Sommerville enjoyed a sled ride to Philipshurg Monday afternoon. While in town they took in a very good picture. Weather conditions were delightful and all reported a wonderfully happy time.

Mrs. A. Kist, of West Virginia, with her two small sons and a darling new baby daughter are guests of her mother, Mrs. Lenger. Miss Emma Clark, who has spent the winter months in the South accompanied them home.

J. G. Miller is in Philadelphia on a business trip.

Mrs. Thorp is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Cooper for a few days.

The Presbyterian Ladies' Aid Society met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Mudge. About thirty members were present and had a delightful time. Mrs. MacDonald gave an interesting address on the advantages of a community house.

Winburne is fortunate in having a Free Library containing 400 books for the use of its people. Through the kindness of Max Crain, the Librarian these books may be had at the Post office during the hours already advertised. Miss MacDonald, aid, State Librarian of Harrisburg, and a band of interested local workers, spent Thursday and Friday classifying and cataloging the books.

During her sojourn in Winburne, Miss MacDonald was entertained by the Misses Sommerville at Highcliffe.

MUSICAL CLUB ENJOYS "THE MAKER OF DREAMS"

The Maker of Dreams a Pierrot Pierrette farce by Oliphant Downe, was charmingly staged and acted before the Clearfield Musical Club last evening in the College of Music Auditorium.

In the quaint and well constructed setting of big fireplace and high backed settle, red curtains, brightly painted chairs, and tea table set with crockery and pewter, Pierrot and Pierrette found their true love.

Miss K. Tozier, as the Maker of Dreams, overcame the difficulty of her stiff allegorical part of her dreamy, gentle and pleasantly pitched voice. Pierrette, Miss N. McDowell, was a pathetic but practical little figure beside Pierrot's ever-changing humors. Pierrot's part offered greater scope than either of the others; and Mr. A. Kennard rose to the occasion with perfect ease and considerable ability. His rapid and decided changes of mood were excellently done. His foolish little songs were enhanced by the nice little tunes that he composed himself.

Credit is due Miss Dorothy Woodward and Miss Josephine McMurray who coached; and Miss Isabel Powell and Mr. D. W. Powell, who constructed the charming setting.

It is a pleasure to see a group of people who are willing, unrewarded, to expend much constant energy in seeing that a thing is well done; none of whom lie down on the job before it is finished.

Paint From Hands.

SLIPS ON SOAP ON FLOOR DISLOCATES ELBOW

Mrs. Reed Barger of Woodland is suffering from a very severe injury sustained late yesterday afternoon when she slipped on a cake of laundry soap which threw her with such force that in attempting to lighten her fall she dislocated the elbow joint. Mrs. Barger was engaged in house cleaning an odd job notice the soap lying on the floor where she stepped. After the fall she was brought to the Clearfield Hospital where her arm was attended to and she was taken back home. It is a very painful injury but not believed to be serious.

Slight Improvement In Unemployment During Two Weeks Just Past

Warrisburg, Pa., Feb. 7.—A slight improvement in unemployment during the last two weeks was reported by the Employment Bureau today. The number of unemployed in the Johnstown, McKeesport and Scranton districts fell off somewhat from the peak reached about the first of January. Other districts of the state about held their own. The total reported out of work in Pennsylvania was 318,835 compared to 318,860 January 15th and 321,898 January 1st.

Ouch! Such Pain!

It takes you right in the back! Sometimes in the arm, hip or foot.

It's all due to an over-abundance of that poison, called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome and prolong life by taking the advice of Doctor Pierce, which is, "keep the kidneys in good order." Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking "Anuric." This can be obtained at any drug store, in tablet form.

Ask for Doctor Pierce's Anuric (kidney and backache remedy).

Ask your neighbors! Many of them have received benefit just as has this man.

Sanborn, N. Y.—"A year ago I was troubled with my kidneys. Had used several patent medicines with no relief. I am a farmer and you are all quite aware that farming strikes hard on the kidneys. I purchased six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Anuric (kidney and backbone) tablets and today I feel quite a new man. No more piercing pains in my back, and farm work seems more of a pleasure to me than a burden. Three cheers for Anuric!"—Elihu Williams, Route 17.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By "Skinney"

Defiance of the law is far from being a gainful occupation and those who persist therein shall eventually suffer the penalty of the law. This fact is made plain in the case of "Red" Askey, the Osceola man, sentenced by Judge Bell yesterday to pay $5,000 fine and serve three years in jail for open, notorious and long persisted in violation of the liquor laws "Red" Askey was given a severe sentence but, as the District Attorney said in his statement outlining the depredations of the gang Askey was one of the leaders of, his or their crimes were flagrant and of far-reaching consequences, in that heretofore innocent young men were pined with liquor and induced to go with the arch conspirators for a small consideration and assist in highway robberies and other crimes.

"Red" Askey is only one of several ring leaders in this long-continued nefarious business and the County authorities propose to continue their efforts until every bootlegger is driven out of business or into jail. More power to their elbows.

They tell a story of an old Lawrence township farmer who made it a point to always see the hole before he noted the doughnut and could never fully agree with any worth while proposition. He finally lost his wife after living with her for forty years. At the funeral neighbors came in and were sitting around commiserating with him. The farmer said, "Yes, she was a good woman, a good housekeeper, a good mother and a good Christian. But you know I never liked her."

Adirondack trappers this year will receive $1,500,000 for skunk, mink and fox skins, says the Fur Manufacturing Association. This is their record year. Fur buyers are paying 40 per cent. more than in 1920.

Secret Service men and mail order houses are examining closely all 2-cent stamps they can find. A counterfeit is out, the first since 1894. The "U" in the United States is defective in the upper left hand corner. It must certainly be an industrious gentleman who devotes his energies to so trifling a counterfeit.

Dr. Winifred S. Stoner, a New York physician and one of the sponsors for the Sheppard bill which proposes to raise babies by Act of Assembly, now says we should make our children good via music and that instead of spanking them we should sing them a song. Doctor Winifred says:

"The only thing that makes children unruly and mischievous is neglect on the part of their mothers. 'There are two things besides a mother's natural care of her child that tend to make children good. They are good, instructive moving pictures and good music."

"The right way to impress upon a child the value of consideration of others is by suggestion. I think the best method of suggestion is song. Mothers spend too much time thinking about what to put on their children's backs. They should take more pains with what they put into the little ones' heads."

"By music I do not mean jazz. I can't think of any way to express my abomination of that kind of noise. One can't call it music."

It might not be necessary to add that Doctor Winifred arrives at her conclusions purely from observation only.

Paris doctors now waging a strenuous campaign against the flu epidemic sweeping Europe are fighting the disease with food and are having marvelous success. They prescribe abundant rest and a warm room for the patient and few Frenchmen are dying.

Battle Against Dry Rot

Dry rot is a wood disease and is doing serious trouble in some localities and engineers are proposing preventive and curative measures. It is especially urged that every member of the nation be informed from timber for buildings. The infected spots are to be sealed to retain the "spores" and are then to be completely removed in a limited. The diseased wood is to be kept from contact with other building material, white wash used in cutting it are to be afterward sterilized.

In the same year as Lowell, or just three centuries ago, was born Abraham Cowley, who published his first book of poems at the age of fifteen and to whom fell the posthumous honor of leading off Samuel Johnson's "Lives of the Poets." Johnson ranked him among those he called the "metaphysical" poets and expressed a dislike for his far-fetched conceits with which the present-day reader would heartily coincide.

LIVESTOCK EXHIBIT AT FARM PRODUCTS SHOW A FEATURE OF GREAT INTEREST AND CLEARFIELD WAS NOT THERE

Neighboring Counties Make Fine Showing Of Pure Bred Hogs And Clearfield Must Stir Herself To Be In The Running Next Year—Co-Operation Will Work Out.

ELIMINATION OF SCRUB IS FIRST STEP

The livestock exhibit shown at the Farm Products Show at Harrisburg, January 24 to 27, was an educational feature of exceptional interest to the farmers who attended.

The pure-bred hog exhibit, representing the best individuals of the state in each of the four leading breeds of lard type hogs, was shown by the different County Associations for advertisement purposes.

Each County Association had the privilege of showing four of its best and individuals and no proof is needed in saying that all were fine specimens of the particular breed they represented. Jefferson County showed Berkshires, Westmoreland County, Poland Chinas, Northumberland County, Duroc Jerseys, while Clearfield County was conspicuous in its absence.

Grove City community had the honor of representing the state in showing some of their best dairy cattle, as well as, showing how the community had been built up through the introduction of pure bred dairy cattle since 1916.

Five years ago only half a dozen pure-bred cattle could be found in that community. Today they number up in the thousands. This change was brought about through the united efforts of the Banks, Farm Bureau, the State College, U. S. Department of Agriculture and the farmers themselves.

The local banks first brought in a car load of pure-bred cattle which were distributed to the farms at cost. This was followed by the organization of Boys and Girls Pure Bred Dairy Calf Clubs Bull Associations, Cow Testing

REGULAR TESTING IS REASON FOR BIG ADVANCE IN COWS

Reason why Pennsylvania ranks among the leaders in cow testing association work is shown in the widespread endorsement to testing that dairymen of the state give through the increasing number of associations that are being established each year. As an example of how production is increased and money saved in testing, County Agent Sterrett gives the following data compiled in recent work under the direction of the dairy extension force of the Pennsylvania State College.

A summary of one cow testing association that has been in operation for three years shows how constructive improvement has been made from year to year:

	Pounds Milk	Pounds Fat
First year	5,098	225
Second year	5,754	261
Third year	6,011	280

In other words, the average production per cow in this association was 913 pounds of milk and 55 pounds of fat higher than the first year the association was in operation. The average income over the cost of feed per cow was $25.53 more the third year than the first.

POULTRY SHOW AT STATE COLLEGE IS FEBRUARY 20-24

"Are you interested in raising poultry and would you like to get a whole lot of information and practical experience at very little expense in five days time?" The answer to an affirmative reply is the Second Annual Poultry Week that will be held, February 20th to 24th, at the Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture. All that is needed to enroll for the course is a fair knowledge of the handling of poultry.

County Agent Sterrett

Butcher the scrub sire; whether he is a scrub individual or is of scrub breeding.

Associations and Accredited Herds

The Grove City community is very much on the map as a dairy center, as the result of this work. Not only that but the prosperity of the community has been increased many folds, and instead of being a discouraged group of farmers they are happy and contented.

The lessons brought out at the Harrisburg Show in regard to the Hogs and Dairy Cattle could be well applied to Clearfield County. We need more and better livestock, we need to get on the map in agriculture, the same as we are in mining and brick manufacturing. To do this it will be necessary to co-operate in every sense of the word. The banks are ready and willing to assist. The Farm Bureau is always ready and anxious to help along these lines. All that remains is the farmers. The question of prime importance is whether or not the farmers can afford not to fall in with the Better Livestock movement.

In order to reach the desired goal, or in other words, be on the map as a Livestock County, we must eliminate all scrub sires in the County to start with, and replace them with pure-breds. Then establish one or two breeds (only) of dairy cattle, hogs, etc., instead of a few of all the different breeds. Follow this with bull Associations, Cow Testing Associations, Accredited Herds and Hog Associations and within a very few years Clearfield County can compete for honors in the Livestock Shows, as well as, change the credit side of the Ledger materially, which is after all the ultimate goal of our endeavors.

SET 500 EGGS IF YOU WISH TO HAVE PEN OF 100 PULLETS

At this time of year Clearfield County farmers are beginning to think of the spring poultry hatch. Some timely reminders are offered by County Agent Sterrett in regard to success in this endeavor.

In order to mature one hundred pullets, a person should plan on setting about five hundred eggs, he says. Under the most favorable condition four hundred might suffice but in order to play safe, five hundred is not two liberal an estimate. This estimate is based on an allowance of sixty per cent hatch of all eggs, seventy five per cent of chickens hatched, reared and fifty per cent of the chicks reared being pullets. This would allow culling of about ten percent of the pullets reared, which is conservative. If by past experience a person has found that he can excel in any one or all of these items, he can of course decrease the number of eggs in proportion to his success.

One of the big losses in incubation is the value of eggs that do not hatch. The average hatch in many large hatcheries is fifty per cent, and rarely is sixty percent exceeded. By proper care and management of the breeding stock this average can be raised much higher. It is unquestionably profitable to take this necessary care.—Well developed, well rested breeding stock that has had plenty of free range and an abundance of green food with probably some milk, is in a position to produce eggs that should hatch better than the average.

WHAT IS A SCRUB?

A scrub is the product of bad breeding, bad feeding, a combination of both. Perhaps we can get at this no better way than by saying that as far as breeding is concerned the scrub animal is one that has a long line of measly, mean, inferior ancestors, so many of them and all so mean, its life's work of worthlessness is cut out for it from the start, or it may have had so many different kinds of ancestors that it doesn't know what to do.

Let us take for example, one of the calves in a scrub herd. Possibly that calf's mother was a pretty good dairy cow. You know it sometimes happens that the scrub cow gives a pretty good mess of milk. We expect that mother to have some influence on the little calf.—She says to it: "Be a dairy animal!"

Perhaps the calf's grand mother was not a dairy animal at all—scrub daughters are not always like their scrub mothers. That old grandmother may have had an inclination to get fat if she got enough to eat. She too has some influence on the calf—she says to it: "Be a beef animal!"

Possibly the calf's great grand mother was neither a beef nor a dairy cow; perhaps she has nothing to recommend her but an appetite—she says to the little calf: "just rest, do nothing."

Here are three influences pulling in different directions and no body knows what the great-grandmother said, because it is a rare thing that we can trace the ancestry of a scrub animal back three generations.

Remember this unlucky calf's sire had a streak of Guernsey in him; the sire's mother had a pinch of Holstein in her and back of that was old native muley-brindle blood. Here we have a batch of other influences pulling from the sire's side.

When that little calf lands on earth it has so many influences pulling at it that they almost pull it out of its hide. That calf doesn't know whether to be a beef steer, a dairy cow, or a yoke of oxen. It is the essence of boiled down uncertainty. All we can do with that calf is to make veal of it or to continue to bestow high priced feed and high priced labor on it and wait and see what it is going to do. And after all it may decide to take the advice of its great-grandmother and do nothing.

Outside with the scrub! We want no such stuff! We can't afford the scrub. Life is too short to fool with so much uncertainty!

Had we mated these penny-royal cows with the pure-bred sire (and that would have been the thing to do, if we had to have such cows) the story of the calves would have been different.

Because the cows were of so many kinds of breeding, there would have been enough uncertainty, even then. But one thing is certain, the calves would look more like their pure bred sire than like their mixed mothers. They would be an improvement on their mothers—they would be one step in the right direction—they wouldn't be scrubs. They would be half-bloods. They would be grades.

buildings approved by the Pennsylvania State College.

The Blue Prints and information are free. However, they are to be returned when finished to the Farm Bureau Office for others, who might want them as the supply is limited. Write or call the Farm Bureau Office if you are going to build.

Because the sire is mated with a large number of females, the selection of the sire is important.

"FARMING FOR PROFITS"

DAIRY STOCK AND THE SOIL

Headwork counts for more perhaps in dairy farming than the manual labor does. This occupation gives great opportunity for individual initiative and rewards the use of the best mental and business ability. Formerly it was one thing to make a "living on the farm" when land and labor was cheap and side lines were plenty, now it is another thing to succeed and make a profit over high prices for equipment and labor in competition with the industrial growth of the cities. Raising farm produce and manufacturing milk so as to sell at reasonable prices at a profit is a real man size job. In the pursuit of it "TOMORROW" the best farm implement will be the brain.

We have a soil that is naturally fertile and the seasons for growth of vegetation essential for the feeding of dairy cows, long enough to mature it. We have a good market at hand which has never been overstocked by home products or undersold by shippers of produce. And above all we have a farm population that is catching the vision of profitable farming especially along the lines of breeding better stock. Our successful stockmen have produced efficiency standards almost unthinkable. In doing this he is eliminating from his herd the scrub breeders, the boarders and the non-producers of profit. He is building up a strain of fine animals with profit income as easily as raising scrubs and feeding boarders at a loss. What is an efficient standard for a dairy cow in Clearfield County?

Professor Borland of Pennsylvania State College says, "There is no future for you in the dairy business if you are carrying on your dairying operations with just average cows. The average cow in Pennsylvania only produces 4334 pounds of milk per year according to the 1920 census. At the present price of milk and butter fat, this is not a sufficient amount of milk to pay for the feed, labor and other overhead expenses, to say nothing of returning any profit to the owner of the cow. In fact a cow ought to produce 6500 pounds of milk or 250 pounds of butterfat yearly to pay for her keep and other expenses and then have anything left over for her owner."

The cost of milk production decreases as the efficiency of the herd increases in milk production. We would have to have an average of 8000 pounds of milk annually per dairy cow in the United States if we were to take first rank among the dairy nations of the world. We now are fifth in rank in milk production with an average of 3412 pounds annually per cow! By the census of 1920 we see that 21 million dairy cows are distributed among 5 million farms in the United States. This readily shows that the scrub and the boarder are the prime factors in cutting down the average.

With these figures confronting farmers and dairymen they can hardly be satisfied short of 8000 pounds annually milk producing cows. Individual cows in different parts of the country have made records so large as to be almost believed impossible if it were not for their truthfully registered certificate of fact. A Holstein cow heads the list in milk and fat production with a record of 37,844 pounds of milk, 1,158.95 pounds of fat. A Guernsey followed next with a record of 24,008 pounds of milk. (Continued on Page 11.)

WHAT IS A GRADE?

In common stockmen parlance we consider almost any animal a grade that is not a pure-bred. But is it? No! To be exact, a grade animal is one that has one pure-bred parent, the other being a mixture. But we may not be far wrong in considering any good animal, that carries in its veins a lot of improved blood, a grade whether or not its sire or mother is pure-bred. Good grade animals are valuable. They can be so near pure-bred that they serve the same working purpose as pure-breds, but they may not be so reliable as breeders.

We have all heard some fellow say: "My grades are just as good as the other fellow's pure-breds." He talks about his grades as compared with pure-breds until he gives everybody the impression that his animals are good because they are grades.

We wonder if he ever stops to think what made his grade animals good. Is it because they are grades? Or is it because part of their ancestors were pure-breds? When we get things figured out we find that the grade animal is good, not because it is a grade, but because it has some pure bred ancestors, and the more pure-bred ancestors the grade animal has, the better grade it usually is. We must give the pure-bred animal credit for the good grade.

We have said that the grade animal can be so well bred or have so many "top crosses" that it looks like a pure-bred, acts like a pure-bred. But we can't depend upon the grade sire like we can upon the pure-bred. Some where in the grade's ancestry, there is a mixture that is likely to crop out, when we are not looking for it.

N. J. Cow Sets Record As Champion Milker

Daretown, N. J., Feb. 2.—A cow belonging to S. L. Moore, near here, has broken all records as a champion milker in a test. The animal is a Holstein-Friesian, Arne Rube Pierterje De Kel 280,823, and the milking was done with officials from the advanced registry office of the New Jersey experiment station. The cow averaged 100 pounds of milk per day for nine days, in addition to making a high grade butter record for seven days. Several other cows in the herd of Moore at the same time made fine records. The cows were milked every six hours. The official record of the cow is: "Seven days: Butter 6 1-2, 31.773 pounds; milk, 698.700 pounds. Milk high day, 104 pounds; average fat per cent, 3.636; fourteen days: Butter 59.981 pounds; milk 1347.100; average fat per cent, 3.562." The herd of cattle on the Moore farm is one of the finest in South Jersey.

Forage Crops For Swine

By E. M. CHRISTEN, Swine Extension Specialist, Pennsylvania State College

The problems of the swine breeder in Pennsylvania are not the same as those of the breeder in the true corn belt. Here we are located in the midst of a large consuming industrial people, which means our market is at our door. Thus we eliminate transportation costs and a complicated machinery of marketing. The cost of these two items must be deducted from the corn-belt man's selling price, since his product must go to the consumer in direct competition with ours here.

Hence, our biggest problem perhaps in Pennsylvania is to lower our cost of production. When one considers that our state is eighteenth in production, that we produce approximately a million and a quarter hogs each year, we realize that a slight lowering of production cost increases the profit to the farmers of the state by a large figure. As we are not a typically corn producing state it is necessary to look for a growing substitute. This is found to be the use of a forage crop during the growing season.

To prove the statement just made, the following summary of demonstrations conducted in Pennsylvania this last summer is quoted:

PORK PRODUCTION Forage Crops vs. Dry Lot

Forage Summary of 12 Demonstrations in 8 Counties
Dry Lot Summary of 3 Demonstrations in 3 Counties
Weights and Gains
Amounts and Costs of Grain

	Forage	Dry Lot
Number of Counties	8	3
Number of Demonstrations	12	3
Number of Pigs	302	36
Days on Forage	91.4	128
Initial weight per head	54 lb	32 lb
Final weight per head	129.6 lb	156 lb
Total gain on pasture	23,717 lb	5,856 lb
Average daily gain per head	.859 lb	1.27
Total pounds grain fed	75,344 lb	27,231 lb
Total cost of grain	$1,135.99	$429.25
Average cost per cwt of grain fed	$1.51	$1.58
Grain required per 100-lb gain	317.7 lb	451 lb
Grain cost per 100-lb gain	$4.80	$7.31
Forage cost per 100-lb gain	$1.25
(including man and horse labor, rent of land, seed, fertilizer and fence)
Labor in feeding, interest on investment and equipment per 100-lb gain	$.87	$1.25
Total cost per 100-lb gain	$6.92	$8.65
Credit for manure per 100-lb gain	$.96	$.96
Net cost per 100-lb gain	$5.96	$7.69

The above is a summary of the forage crop demonstrations carried to completion during the summer of 1921. These were supervised by the County Farm Bureaus and members of the Extension Department of the College. The figures show the following:

- 1.—That it required 133.3 pounds less feed to produce 100 pounds of pork on forage than it did in dry lot.
- 2.—That the feed cost per 100 pounds of gain is $7.13 in the dry lot feeding and $4.79 in the lots where forage crop is given. This is a saving of $2.39 in favor of using a pasture.
- 3.—That the net cost of producing 100-lb gain with forage is $5.96, and with dry lot $7.69. This gives a net $1.73 in favor of forage crops.

After studying this table the question arises, What forage crop should I use and how much do I need? It is impossible to give an answer that will apply to every individual. Ordinarily alfalfa or clover pasture will give the best results, and will provide an ample amount of green feed throughout the growing season. However, if one does not have a lot of these legumes started now, it is too late to get it ready for the coming season. Rape of an English variety is the next best forage and is ready for pasturing six to eight weeks after it is sown. Rape can be used with any pigs but white ones. The white skin is easily irritated by the rape and the ears and backs of the pigs will blister or scald. This is only true of young white pigs. Rape will furnish an abundance of forage throughout the season, if not pastured too hard. It is usually sown at the rate of ten pounds per acre. Combinations of oats and rape, oats and peas, and oats, peas and rape, are used with good success. They usually do not last as long or furnish as much forage as do the legumes or rape alone. In these combinations the oats and peas are usually sown at the rate of a bushel and half each per acre, and when rape is added the amount is five pounds per acre.

As to the acreage to sow, this depends entirely on the size and number of hogs to be pastured. An acre of ordinary pasture will provide succulent feed for 20 to 25 average sized spring pigs. This rule will serve as a guide for the amount to plant or sow.

In planning your forage it is well to remember next fall. It is then time to fatten and a few acres of corn can be easily and profitably harvested by turning the hogs into it. One acre of corn will fatten 5 to 7 125 pound pigs. It is to the advantage of every man who is not using forage for his pigs to do so. It is necessary to plan and look ahead. It means a saving of $1.73 for every 100 pound of pork he produces.

Scrub Methods Make Scrub People Which Way Are You Heading Today?

"As I was coming along the road this afternoon," said Prof. P. G. Holden, in addressing an audience in a rural school in Texas, I saw scrub cows, scrub pigs, a scrub barn, scrub fences and a scrub house. And now, what else do you think I saw, children?" he asked.

Instantly a little girl in the audience sprang to her feet and replied: "I know, you saw a scrub man."

Unconsciously the child uttered a great truth.

Wherever we find poor livestock, fences that are falling down, barns and houses that need painting and repairing and a general air of neglect around the place we are sure to find scrub people. We are judged by what we have about us; by the quality of our livestock; by the general appearance of our homes.

If we employ scrub methods of farming, we will have scrub farms.

Don't say thorough-bred unless you mean the English running horse. Say pure-bred. Sometimes we say full-blooded. What do we mean by that? All animals are supposed to be full of blood. Use the right term—Pure-bred.

Go where we may, we will always find that when people get through robbing the soil and begin to develop a permanent home making agriculture, then will we find live stock. But real development never makes much advancement with scrub stock.

BEST CABBAGE FOR STORING

Should Be Carefully Grown and of a Variety Well Adapted to Keeping Say Experts

Cabbages for storing should be carefully grown and selected and of a variety well adapted to keeping. Say the vegetable specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. The heads should be solid and all the leaves removed and the roots cut from the stems caused by insects and diseases. They should be placed in a storage house so constructed and arranged as to prevent drip from the structure striking the stored heads. It is also essential that moisture and ventilation be so controlled as to prevent the condensation of moisture on the cabbage while in storage. The temperature maintained in common storage houses may vary from 32 to 40 degrees Fahrenheit depending on outdoor conditions. In no case should the cabbages be allowed to freeze. The usual type of construction employed in common storage houses is that of a broad low house with an alley sufficiently wide to admit them and when through the center and with the cabbages on shelves. The shelves are placed in rows in the house and the cabbages are placed in rows on the shelves. The shelves are also large and flat to keep the crop.

Khaki

To India by way of England we owe the word "khaki." There was a sect of Brahmins—and it is still in existence—who applied the ashes of cow dung to their clothes and persons. They were called khaki because of that coloration—or discoloration. The word was naturally applied to the dirty or clay color in the uniform of soldiers or sepoys by the British Government. Hence the protective heat chocolate dye employed in British military uniform.

AFFECT FARM VALUES BY CHANGES IN TYPE

Crops Have Ceased to Be Profitable

When Making New Selections Will Well to Look Back and Follow Economic Criteria That Have Flourished

The farmer is now faced with a new problem. The crops which he has been growing for years have ceased to be profitable. This is due to a number of causes, but the main one is the change in the type of crops which are being raised. The farmer must now select crops which will give him a better return on his investment. This means that he must look back at the crops which have been profitable in the past and follow the economic criteria that have flourished.

GIVE THE BOY A START

Give the boy a heifer.
Start him on his way.
Make him feel he's starting in
To be a man today.
Let him know the value
Of a cow or two;
See him take a keener pride
In the farm for you.

Give the boy a heifer.
Tell him, "Take it, son,
May you have a dozen cows,
Soon, instead of one."
Let him know he's wanted
On the old farm too;
And he'll stay and work his way
Side by side with you.

A pure-bred sire may be of good type; may have had good ancestors; may be prepotent; but he cannot improve our stock unless his offspring have good feed and good care.

The highest type of citizenship, the best homes, the best folks are found where livestock has been the most used and the most improved. The higher the type of citizenship, the fewer the scrub animals.

Man Not Unlike Lower Animals.

Darwin says that weeping is a habit that "must have been acquired since man branched off from the common progenitor of the genus homo and of the now weeping anthropomorphous ape." This assertion causes us to associate to ourselves one more point of difference between us and the lower animals, until we read on and find an account by this same author of an Indian elephant, which, when held captive, sobbed bitterly while tears rolled down his face.—Chicago Daily News.

Aim High.

If you hit the mark you must aim a little above it; every arrow that flies from the attraction of earth.—Lang-fellow.

Must Be Handled Cautiously.

If radium were as plentiful and as easily obtained as gold everybody might have a little of it in thick lead boxes to protect themselves against its dangerous rays, which it never ceases to give off until in some thousands of years it exhausts itself, having turned into something else.

Diplomatic Modesty.

Every discreet diplomat refrains from magnifying any impression that he has got the best of a bargain. Politeness is a part of diplomacy, and in order to be polite it is often necessary to appear modest.—Washington Star.

Farming For Profits

1,098.18 pounds of fat. The Ayre shire is in the race head and neck with the Guernsey with a record of 25,329 pounds of milk and 894.91 pounds of fat. The Jersey, a smaller breed of dairy cow, comes up with a record, 18,732.9 pounds of milk from one cow. Another of the same breed leads her with a record of 15,271.8 pounds of milk containing 1,039.29 pounds of fat. A brown Swiss cow has a record of 19,406.5 pounds of milk, 789.16 pounds of fat. These certified records surely place before American dairymen an ideal of efficient milk factories which challenges them to furnish the raw materials to keep such factories in running full capacity production.

We notice in making observations, though the average farmer does not possess cows like we have above mentioned, he would like to own some that would measure up toward them in a degree at least and is facing in that direction. There are a great many leaks to be stopped and conditions to be bettered in making a profit from the products of a cow. The job is highly commendable with possibilities unlimited.

Another View of Selfishness.

Selfishness does not always apply to the man who is unwilling to share his belongings with others, but it also applies to the man who may have some practical ideas and will not pass them on to his neighbor.

English "Boxing Day."

Boxing day is the 26th of December, and is one of the four legal bank holidays in England. It was on this day that in olden times the gentry made presents, especially of money, to their servants and dependents. These presents came to be known as Christmas boxes.

Three seeds by no means alike. The letter "h" is pronounced at the beginning of the word hour, heir, arch, humor, honest, honor, and their derivatives. Many people are unaware of the fact that the word herb does not have its "h" sounded. "H" is silent also when it comes after the letter "r," as in rheumatism.

Little Manufacture in Santo Domingo.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little, olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dizziness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "laid" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "pick up" the spirits. Use and see.
